International Law Weekend 1994: A Celebration of the Building Blocks of the Modern International Community

This year's program is one of the most extensive and diverse that the ILA has ever offered. Our focus is the fifty year anniversary of the series of international organizations which form the basic building blocks of the modern international community. Panels will explore the history of these organizations, the problems they face now and will contemplate restructuring that may be necessary to make the organizations more effective.

Unless otherwise noted, all events occur at the House of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, 42 West 44th Street, New York (located between Fifth and Sixth Avenues). Programs are open to all without charge and without need for prior registration.
